

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Research Background

The activity of writing is development from year to year, the first term the meaning of writing it was making letter, numbers, names and a sign of linguistic with stationery on a page. In this time, the development of word greatly increases with of new formations by using affixes. With by using affixes to increase new vocabulary, it can make a sentence clearly to use. The right affixes is recommended to using daily activities.

Grammar is one of component in English language. In this component, there are rules or procedure of the written online news. In the letters of English must be correctly the meaning on rules. The better a person on writer, it will be better and clear in every word spoken. Of course, the first must be understand of the shape, meaning, and function in affix and how to use appropriately.

In Indonesia, English is a foreign language or included in the circle of expansion, it has not official status and remains dependent on the standard circle the inner by the native speakers. Because, English is a foreign language that have not official status, so many people difficult to understand about grammar and correct pronunciation in English language, as well as the used of suffixes -d and -ed.

So far, there are students do not understand and not clear about the use of suffix -d and -ed. The researcher saw that the average of the students is not clear and still confused about using the suffixes -d and -ed, and the most of them use resourced to complicates on the learn and difficult to understand. Therefore, the researcher intends to provide a solution to this problem. So, from the explanation above, the researcher focuses on finding the inflectional suffix 'noun' with the title " A Morphological Analysis the Inflectional Suffix -d and -ed in The Jakarta Post Newspaper.

By using of the clear on media, the explanations there are easy to understand, and using simple language that can be easily captured by students. The researcher hope that this way can be effective in reduce the level of knowledge about the suffix -d and -ed.

B. Research Focus

In this research the researcher focus on Analysis The Inflectional Suffix –d and –ed in The Jakarta Post Newspaper.

C. Research Questions

The question of this research the following :

1. What are the type of inflectional suffix in The Jakarta Post Newspaper?
2. What are the similarities and differences of suffix –d and –ed in The Jakarta Post Newspaper?

D. Research Objectives

Base on the research question the object of this research into :

1. To find out type of inflectional suffix which were used in The Jakarta Post Newspaper.
2. To know the similarities and differences of suffix –d and –ed in The Jakarta Post Newspaper.

E. Research Benefit

The researcher hope this research will give a benefits as follow :

1. For English Teacher

To knowledge and thoughts about how to develop language skills through language knowledge contained in the branch of linguistics.

2. For Readers

To get more knowledge about English, especially the morphology of a language, and students can learn the form and meaning in Inflectional suffix it the analysis by the researcher.

3. For Other Researcher

To get more experience about language knowledge and skills and can be applied by other writers into scientific work, according to the branch of linguistics.